Adamson said police have no idea if Byars left voluntarily or involuntarily. The Nationwide Crime Information Center has listed Byars as a missing person.

"We are at a loss right now," Adamson said. "Relatives in the Midwest haven't heard from him, and he hasn't been seen."

complex in Academy Square on University Avenue. Owners of Academy Square, which housed the original Brigham Young Academy, say they will have to tear the building down if the library proposal doesn't go through.

The council will also consider proposals to place the library in other downtown buildings or expand the present library site.

"We will listen to what the public has to say and go from there," said Council Chairman Chuck Henson. "We haven't decided where the library will be."

Once the council does decide, Henson said, it must also figure out how to pay for the building. "Deciding will be the easy part compared to that," he said. "I don't know how long this process will take."

The Library Board has been studying proposals for the past year and has been working for a new library for many years.

The present city library, on Center Street, was a gift from the Carnegie Family in 1907 when the population of Provo was much less than the 85,000 people who live here now.

Alpine will meet tonight to set the school calendar

AMERICAN FORK — The Alpine Board of Education will meet Tuesday night to set opening and closing dates for school attendance during the 1984-85 school year.

The action will be part of the board's monthly business meeting beginning at 6 p.m. in the board room, 39 N. Center, American Fork.

The board will also consider adopting a policy on discipline in the schools, a proposed drivers education fee and acceptance of two gifts for district elementary schools.

Business items will include approval of contracts with Timp Industries Rehabilitation Services and Utah Technical College, board appointment of a committee member to the Alpine Foundation, and requests to purchase from Aspen Elementary School, Seg Lily Elementary School, Orem Junior High School and the district's special education department.

In addition, the board will hear two policy statements for possible future adoption. There also will be opportunity at the beginning of the meeting for the public to speak.

InstaCare center for Springville area will open Labor Day

SPRINGVILLE — Residents of Springville and southern Utah County are advised that the InstaCare Family Care Center will open on Labor Day.

A physician and his staff will be on duty to see patients from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., the usual business hours, according to Dr. R. Kim Oliver, head physician. No appointment is necessary.

Charges for medical care at the InstaCare Family Care Center are considerably less than at a hospital emergency room.

"We want our patients to know that we're concerned and that they are always welcome to call with questions or comments," Oliver said.

In the event that there is a problem more serious than can be safely treated at the Family Care Center, expert backup treatment is available at Utah Valley Regional Medical Center.

For additional information or for an appointment, residents may call InstaCare at 489-3600.
